Sunday Marriage Engagement Valid.

An opinion was filed n few days ago lu the Supreme Court, lu the case of Charles Markley, a bachelor of 53 years, against whom Eliza Kessering, a malden of 38, obtained a verdiet of $998.75, in the Lancaster County Court, for breach of promise of mar-rlage. The parties in this love affair lived in Maytown, Lancaster county. An eugagement of marriage took piace on Sunday, the 10th day of August, 1879. The courtable had been very short, and was minus the warmth of heart usually displayed in such preliminaries. Indeed, the entracement reconstruction such preliminaries. Indeed, the engagement was spoken of as a most extraordidary alkair. Markley purcliesed his tady love a number of presents, and seemingly prepared for the weddling day. What fire was in his beart, however, suddenly cooled, and one evening he told Miss Kesserhur who was seemetees that ing, who was a seamstress, that he was too old and leme to get married. Ho gave as a reason that his tather it would not be proper to merry nuder such elreumsteuces. His sweet-heart never spoke to him again, but straightway instituted proceedings to recover a baim for the effliction of her heert. The jury before whom the case was tried was a business-like one, and, by their verdlet, they ealeu-lated to the very cent the injury that Miss Kessering had snatained. Markley's appeal to the supreme Court was based upon several reasons, tho the alleged contract of marriage had taken place on Sunday, and wes therefore, inveild, the same as any Well, perhaps I had better pray for ou. WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., July 14, 1882.

Just now, while the Senate is the king it so leisurely and members of the House ere so auxious to adjourn, attention has been called to the time bear so very hard upon men who so plying with the statute which requires them to tortest their antary as cembers during the period they are suggestion of entorcing it, and that was in the case of Senutor Jones, of Nevada, who, for two years, scurcely made his appearance here. If there was a status violated so openly and constantly by other officers of the government, how long would it be hetere some virtuous member of Congress would propose a committee of investigation, and have the offenders daily punished? If the molety system to informers is still in toren and applicable to this case, there is a splendal fleid of operations open here. Some few members of the recent Congresses would have to dis-
